

ABOUT THE EDITORS

KAI DREISBACH is a consultant for political education and communication. He holds a PhD from the University of Cologne and was previously affiliated with the Institute of Anglo-American History, University of Cologne, as a research fellow. He is the author of USA und ASEAN: Amerikanische Außenpolitik und regionale Kooperation in Südostasien vom Vietnamkrieg bis zur Asienkrise (Trier: WVT, 2004).

PATRICIA C. SUTCLIFFE has a PhD in German from the University of Texas at Austin. She is currently an editor at the German Historical Institute and is primarily responsible for the in-house publications. She has previously worked as Visiting Assistant Professor of German at Colgate University and Montclair State University, as well as Lecturer in English at both the University of Würzburg and the University of Freiburg. She has published several articles on intellectual exchange in the history of linguistics, especially in the late nineteenth and early twentieth century.

CHRISTOPH STRUPP holds a PhD from the University of Cologne and taught as Assistant Professor of Modern History at the Universities of Heidelberg and Cologne from 1997 to 2001. He has been a GHI Research Fellow since 2001. He is the author of Johan Huizinga: Geschichtswissenschaft als Kulturgeschichte (Göttingen: Vandenhoeck & Ruprecht, 2000), and the co-editor of Universität der Gelehrten—Universität der Experten: Adaptionen deutscher Wissenschaft in den USA des neunzehnten Jahrhunderts (with Philipp Löser) (Stuttgart: Steiner, 2005). Together with Birgit Zischke, he published German Americana, 1800–1955: A Comprehensive Bibliography of German, Austrian, and Swiss Books and Dissertations on the United States (Washington, DC: German Historical Institute, 2005).

BIRGIT ZISCHKE holds graduate degrees in American literature and politics from New York University and in international relations/economics from the Paul H. Nitze School of Advanced International Studies at the Johns Hopkins University. From 2002 to 2005, she worked as a GHI Research Associate and was responsible for the production of in-house publications and reference guides as well as the coordination of grant implementation. In addition, she has several years of research, writing, and editing experience in international development, which includes positions as higher education consultant at the World Bank and as senior program officer at the National Democratic Institute for International Affairs.