ABOUT THE EDITOR

Terry Snyder has more than twenty-five years’ experience in the library and archives field. She holds an M.A. in History and Certification in Archival, Museum, and Editing Studies from Duquesne University; an M.S. from Drexel University in Information Science, an ALA-accredited Library Science program; and both an M.A. and Ph.D. in American Civilization from the University of Pennsylvania. She served in a range of positions at the Historical Society of Pennsylvania and the University of Pennsylvania Archives and Records Management Department before taking her position as the director of the library division at Hagley Museum and Library in 2003.