Overview:
Over 2,000 manuscript collections and 15,000 photographs support study in Georgia and Alabama Jewish history, genealogy, and the Holocaust. Cemetery records, family histories, synagogue membership records, population studies, newspapers, and a small collection of Yizkor books from Jewish communities destroyed during the Holocaust assist genealogists in the search for their roots.

Noteworthy Holdings:
Irvin Beck Family Papers (1921–1953)
Hana Kraus Beer Papers (1941–1947)
Jerry Besser Papers (1945–1947)
Walter Bunzl (1913–1988) Family Papers (1902–1962); Mss. 55, 0.4 cu. ft.

Immigration and reparations documents, and records from the New World Club, and the National Council of Jewish Women. Primarily documents relating to the immigration of the Hamburger and Bunzl families in the late 1930s. Included among the documents are German police reports and lists of goods allowed to be removed from Nazi Germany.
Martin Eisler Papers (1945–1950)
Max C. Gettinger Papers (1939)
Joel Hecht Family Papers (1944–1945)
Erika Heymann Hecht Papers (1939–1989)
Kurt Homburger Papers (1938)
Ann Klug Papers (1945–1949)
Herbert Kohn Family Papers (1936–1945) Mss 85, 0.2 cubic feet. Leo Kohn and his parents and brothers were Holocaust survivors who immigrated from Germany in 1939. The Kohn family settled in Columbus, Georgia.
Dr. Eugen Schoenfeld (1925–) Papers (1945–1948)
Barry Seidel Papers (1946)
Archival Collections 45
Gisela Meyer Spielberg Family Papers (1946–1962)
The Standard Club Records (1850–1982); Mss 4, 0.5 cubic ft.; property records, certificates, lists of stockholders, income bonds, titles, contracts, fliers and brochures. Established in 1867 as the Concordia Club, it is the oldest still extant, private club in Atlanta. For over 100 years the Standard Club met most of the social needs of its many members. In the early years, the club adhered to a closed membership policy, welcoming primarily those from the well-established German Jewish community to join. This policy, in part, led to the establishment of social organizations such as the Jewish Progressive Club and the Mayfair Club, which met the needs of other segments of Atlanta’s Jewish society.
The history of the Standard Club directly mirrors the history and lifestyle of its members whose social, political, economic, and philanthropic contributions have helped to shape the city of Atlanta.

Special Collection News: http://news.library.uchicago.edu/special-collections/
Noteworthy Holdings: Rosenberger Ephemera: "One of the most interesting ephemera collections in the Special Collection Research Center’s holdings is that of the Ludwig Rosenberger Library of Judaica. Although Rosenberger spent most of his collecting effort on acquiring non-ephemeral material, he did amass a well-sized collection of ephemera. While the collection has material related to Zionism, Albert Einstein, and Sigmund Freud, its main focus is French, German, and American anti-Semitism."
